

LibriVox

Billy in Bunbury

by Royal Baking Powder Company

This 1924 poem/recipe book, designed as promotional material for the Royal Baking Powder Company, is set in the Oz community of Bunbury. Little Billy, who won't eat, is taken to the delicious kingdom Bunbury by King Hun Bun to help whet his appetite. Meanwhile, the King leaves the boy's mother with a recipe book for treats, made easy by the use of Price's Baking Powder.

Written by Ruth Plumly Thompson, though neither her name, nor the illustrator's (Gertrude Kay) appears on the book.

This project has 2 files and a total running time of 0:20:58.

Read by Patti Cunningham

Dedicated Proof-Listener: Elli

Meta-Coordinator/Cataloging: Ruth Golding

This cover is the original publication cover by Gertrude Kay

For more information or to volunteer, please visit librivox.org.

All LibriVox productions are in the Public Domain.